Johnson, Esq., on last Saturday night, at his residence in that city. "The deceased," says on of our Lexington contemporaries, "was a gentle man of high social and intellectual qualities, and enjoyed to a remarkable extent the confidence esteem, and regard of his friends and acquain tances. Blessed with all that is calculated t make life desirable-family, wealth, position-h early death will be deeply mourned, not only b t hose who are connected with him by ties of blood, but a very extended circle of warmly altache friends here and elsewhere. After life's fitful fever, may he sleep well." In this prayer we ven ture reverently to join. The sleeper was one of the truest and most generous spirits that "life" fitful fever" ever fretted away.
